This thoroughly delightful tale of a Western mining camp, is a picturized version of the same story which appeared lately in one of the popular magazines. It is distinctively a story of extraordinary conincidences in which of extraordinary conincidences in which a man posing as someone else, proposes to a woman he has never known before, she to accept him for face value. The marriage takes place, and almost immediately things begin to happen, and both parties are confronthappen, and both parties are confronted with circumstances which call for masterly handling, and the film is crowded with occurrences that are positively thrilling. "The Loyalty of Jumbo," is a marvelous story of a sagatious elephant. "The Legend of the Amulet," is a splendid story depicted wholly by genuine Indians, "Slippery Slim and the Fortune Teller," is one of those screaming Espansy comedy films, featuring Mr. Victor Potel, he of the long legs, and marathon run. NOW TO MAKE THINGS HURS They are warring now in Poland, And it seems that there is no land Europe which is free from bloody n Europe which is free from bloody fight;
Still there's one land in creation—
That's this good old Yankee nation—
Where ev'rything seems going on all right.

POETRY

There is war with Turk and Russian, With English, French and Prussian. The map of Europe's going to change a lot; While those nations war and blunder, And the air is rent with thunder, We thank our stars we cannot hear a shot.

There's a fertile land of promiss,
That is open to our commerce,
And the trade is knocking loudly as
our door;
Now the door we must unlock it.
And develop this great market,
It's a chance our merchants never had before.

We must now be up and doing. While these foreign woes are brewing, We shouldn't sit and cool off in the shade;
For our products they are waiting.
And it's just the truth I'm stating;
Ve must get a move and hustle for the trade.

"Greetings comrade," called the wind,
"Hows thy heart, today?
Ready for a wandering

Brightly smiled the lad to heart Then he turned arde. "Nay. O Wind, my home is here; Here must I abide."

"Homes there are o'er all the world!
Follow me, my lad!
Build a home where'er you will,
Love will make you glad!" Laughed the Ind, remembering:
Answered he with cheer:
"Farewell, O Wind, I follow not,
